| The PROFILE REQUIREMENTS SELECTED represent the client's self-assessed abilities and limitations, which form the basis for this analysis. Workspace Analytics uses data from several sources, including the Occupational Requirements Survey (ORS), Occupational Employment and Wage Statistics Survey (OEWS), American Community Survey (ACS), Standard Occupational Classification System (SOC), and the final edition of the Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT). All selected requirements have corresponding data points in the ORS system. Each data point corresponds to a unique percentage value within each SOC group. This analysis covers up to 460 SOC groups within the ORS survey, representing 90% of the U.S. labor market. The computation methodology, known as the "Basic Approach," is published by the U.S. Department of Labor Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). The percentages for each ORS category are totaled and then multiplied by the number of positions in OEWS. This process is repeated for all categories covered by the profile, using the remaining jobs from the previous category. The final total number of positions. The ACS percentage of full-time jobs is applied to each SOC group. This process is completed for up to 460 SOC groups. |

| Workspace Analytics software uses the most recent data sets referenced in SSR 24-3P from The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). They include the Occupational Requirements Survey (ORS) updated 2024, the Occupational Employment and Wage Survey (OEWS) updated in 2024, Standard Occupational Classification (SOC) codes updated 2018, the American Community Survey (ACS) updated in 2023 to estimate full-time jobs, as well as the Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT) updated 1991. Elements of the hypothetical such as "light", "SVP 2", "occasional overhead reaching" etc. are all occupational data points with a corresponding ORS estimate code and percentage. For each SOC group, ORS lists percentages of up to 350 occupational data points in 74 ORS categories. The calculation methodology Workspace uses is published by the U.S. BLS and is known as the "Basic Approach", https://www.bls.gov/ors/factsheet/calculating-occupational-employment-for-job-requirements.htm. The percentages for each ORS SOC category included in the hypothetical's requirements are totaled. The first category percentage is multiplied by the OEWS SOC total jobs estimate and becomes the OEWS SOC category subtotal. Each subsequent category percentage is multiplied by each new OEWS SOC subtotal. The last subtotal represents the estimate of all jobs for that SOC (part-time and full-time). Workspace then applies the ACS percentage to estimate the full-time positions for each SOC group. While acknowledging that DOT classification information is obsolete given the availability of the latest ORS data, Workspace includes with each SOC group a representative DOT title, DOT code and related archival references if requested during testimony. |

| Short Script for Issue of ORS Definitions Differing from SSA Definitions: The Social Security Administration (SSA) created the Occupational Information Development Advisory Panel (OIDAP, 2008–2012) to develop a new Occupational Information System (OIS) to replace the obsolete Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT) data. Their recommendations included updating definitions to match preliminary employer survey results. While mostly consistent with DOT definitions, the changes approved by SSA for ORS survey data collection included: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• “Light” work: revised to 25 lbs. maximum exertion (SSA used DOT as 10–20 lbs. max).</li><li>• “Medium” work: revised to &lt;25 lbs. to 50 lbs. maximum exertion (SSA used DOT as 20–50 lbs.).</li><li>• “Full Time” work: revised to &lt;&gt;35 hours/week (SSA used 40 hours/week).</li><li>• “Seldom” activity: defined as ≤ 2% down to “Not Required” (did not exist in DOT).</li><li>• “Occasional” activity: defined as &gt; 2% up to 1/3 of an 8-hour day (DOT used &gt; Never up to 1/3 day).</li></ul> Optional Additional Comments: ORS data is the most comprehensive and current occupational data in American history. The DOT (1938–1991) updated most classifications between 1977 and the late 1980s. All DOT strength categories were expressed as maximums; however, occupations are typically not performed at the maximum strength level. For example, work is considered “Light” even if performed at 15 lbs. maximum, and “Medium” even if performed at 30 lbs. maximum. Workscope Analytics complies with SSR 24-3p. SSA issued notifications to all SSA Vocational Experts (VEs) on December 5, 2024 and December 20, 2024, as well as in the 2025 edition of the Vocational Expert Handbook. In professional experience, the occupations in today’s testimony are consistent with the hypothetical and SSA-approved ORS survey. SSA acknowledged plans to adjust the disability adjudication policy accordingly, but no timeframe was announced. Source Information: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• OIDAP history: https://www.ssa.gov/oidap/</li><li>• ORS project history: https://www.ssa.gov/disabilityresearch/occupational_info_systems.html?ab=0</li><li>• OIS / ORS FAQs: https://www.ssa.gov/disabilityresearch/ois_project_faqs.html</li><li>• Dictionary of Occupational Titles (DOT): https://www.dol.gov/agencies/oalj/topics/libraries/LIBDOT</li></ul> |
